DONATIONS ARE NOW ROLLING IN

Thanksgiving Dinner For the Children Promises to be a Success

W. R. C. WORKING HARD

Surely You Want to Share in the Pleasure of Such an Appropriate Event

Those noble women, members of the local Woman's Relief Corps, are now working day and night that the dinner for the children on Thanksgiving day will be a success in every particular.

Today they were soliciting donations, and in very few places were they "turned down." People seem anxious to give something to this worthy enterprise; but it must be remembered that oodles of things are needed, for at least one hundred children are to be fed. If you have not already given something, phone Mrs. Bert English, and the proper committee will wait on you, and take your offering that you may share in the pleasure of the event, and enter into the right spirit of Thanksgiving.

Last night, the Tri Kappas met and donated five dollars to the dinner. The young lady members of this sorority are to be congratulated and commended for this act, as it is seldom that young ladies become interested to such a degree in such things.

Many citizens are giving one dollar, while others are donating provisions of all sorts.

It has not been determined where the dinner will be served, but it will probably be in a down town store room or hall.

Now don't get so busy that you forget to give something. Ring up Mrs. Bert English at once and tell her to mark you down for at least fifty or twenty-five cents.

BENEFIT FOR THE SCHOOL LIBRARY

High Price Attraction—Victor's Venetian Band—Comes Next Monday Afternoon

An entertainment for the benefit of the Rushville high school library will be given at the Grand Opera house next Monday afternoon at 8:30 o'clock. The entertainment will consist of a full and regular program by Victor's Venetian Band of twenty-five pieces. The organization is one of the finest concert bands on the road and will give a program of excellent music. Indiana indorsements of this band places the entertainment as first class in every respect.

The high school is in fine shape, but the library is yet to be built up, and the public is in this way given an opportunity to enjoy an entertainment worth more than the admission asked and at the same time help a worthy project.

The program will begin at exactly 8:30 o'clock and will be about two hours in length. Let everyone who possibly can attend and enjoy the treat. A complete program will be published Wednesday. Admission twenty-five cents.

Two hundred and fifty million dollars a year would be saved if electricity were to supplant steam entirely.

THE WEATHER

Fair tonight and Wednesday warmer in north and central portion Wednesday.

MINISTER HAS WRITTEN VERY BEAUTIFUL POEM

Poem Entitled "William McKinley" Shows Literary Ability of Manila Minister

Rev. W. R. Jinnett, of Manila, who has relatives in this city, has recently issued a lengthy poem in pamphlet form on the life, character and work of the late William McKinley, which shows that the minister has a great literary ability and the poem for style and beauty will rank among the best work of poets of Indiana. Rev. Jinnett was on the program to have read this poem at the unveiling of the McKinley monument at Canton, Ohio, but owing to illness he was not able to attend.

TRAIN STRUCK A MILK WAGON

Lee Littreal's Vehicle is Reduced to Kindling This Morning

ON C. H. & D. CROSSING Driver Had a Narrow Escape From Being Ground Under the Wheels

"Say, you ought to see the two suckers I caught yesterday," shouted Lee Littreal, the dairyman this morning, near the C. H. & D. crossing on Main street.

"Better look where you're going," said the fellow to whom he addressed his remarks.

Just then a C. H. & D. engine, which had been switching near that street, came puffing along. The milkman's horse shied and started to back.

Littreal tugged away at the lines, but the horse kept backing. Just then something happened. The train struck the milk wagon, reducing it to a pile of kindling wood. The driver escaped uninjured, but his escape was miraculous, as the wagon was a closed one. Milk bottles were broken and scattered in all directions. (About five gallons took a drop—the only drop in milk we have had for over a year.)

The horse suffered painful gashes on the legs and bled profusely. Lee was excited, but not any more so than the English flagman who tried to describe the accident to everyone that came along, giving floor plans and blue print outlines of the incident. Littreal says he will sue for damages.

SPECIAL TRAIN TO NEW CASTLE

Uniform Rank K. of P. Will Run Special on Wednesday Night

The local Uniform Rank K. of P. will run a special train to New Castle Wednesday evening, where a big indoors fair is being held by the K. of P. of that town. It is one of the biggest things of its kind ever held in the City of Roses, and many of the surrounding cities will run special trains for the event.

Everybody is invited to go. The special leaves here at 8:30 o'clock and returning leaves New Castle at 11 o'clock. Tickets can be secured of Geston P. Hunt.

The origin of the Great Banks of Newfoundland is said to have been in the boulders carried down by icebergs. The bank is 600 miles long and 120 broad.

FRUIT VENDER ATTEMPTED AN ASSAULT ON NINTH ST. WOMAN

Stranger Comes Into Home of Mrs. Sarah Harmon and Locks the Door Behind Him—Assault Unsuccessful

FELLOW WAS ARRESTED AND PUT IN JAIL

Declares That He is Innocent and Never Saw the Woman Before Until Confronted by Her in Grand Jury Room

With three appetizing looking apples in his hand a fruit vender knocked at the door of Mrs. Sarah E. Harmon, on West Ninth street, near the Big Four railroad yesterday afternoon about 3:30 o'clock, and secured admission, saying he wished to talk apple sales to her. Once inside the woman claims he turned and locked the door, before she realized what he was doing. And without warning or without uttering a word proceeded to put his arms around her and kiss her. Mrs. Harmon says she was completely dumbfounded and scarce had presence of mind or strength to scream. She fought the man off, but with superior strength continued his advances. As she was sitting down sewing when he entered the house, and did not arise, she was handicapped in the struggle.

The man seemed to be possessed with a demon, and when the woman regained her power of speech, and began to implore with him, to leave off such improper actions, he continued without heeding her prayers.

Mrs. Harmon gained her feet and the two struggled about the room for some time. At last she thought of a plan: she hollowed to him that the children had returned from school and were then waiting on the outside, and if they could not secure admission, they would become startled, and arouse the neighborhood. With a promise that she would call them in, and let him out the door, the woman freed herself from his embraces, and once she opened the locked door, she darted out and down the street, apprising the neighbors of the incident at the top of her voice.

The fruit vender made good his escape and Mrs. Harmon immediately notified the police. A "gum shoe" hunt of the city was made in an effort to find the fellow. Sheriff King located the vender shortly after noon today and took him before the grand jury which was in special session. The woman was in the grand jury room where she had just told her story to the jurors, when the sheriff brought the fellow before her.

"That's the man," cried the woman, the minute her eyes fell upon him. He was taken to jail, where County Attorney Gates Sexton waited on him. A representative of this paper called at the jail and talked with the prisoner. He gave as his name, Walter Haynes, and said he lived at the corner of Wabash and Alabama streets in Indianapolis. Haynes appeared to be very much agitated, and it was with trembling voice that he spoke. He is but twenty-two years of age and says this is the first time he has ever under arrest or accused of a crime. He stoutly maintained that he was innocent, and declared when he saw Mrs. Harmon in the jury room that it was the first time he ever saw her in his life.

He was very much perturbed that his folks and his sweetheart would learn of his incarceration on such a serious charge. Haynes says that if he had been guilty of such an offense it did not stand to reason that he would remain in this city and sell apples today. He claimed he could easily prove an alibi with his partner, who was with him on the apple wagon. And he further stated that he could prove an alibi with the residents of the west part of this city, where he claimed he was at the hour the woman says he was in her house.

The charge lodged against the youthful prisoner is assault and battery with an attempt to commit an assault, based on the rude and insolent manner in which he is alleged to have acted in his attempt to have carnal relations with Mrs. Harmon.

Mrs. Harmon is a married woman and has several children, among them a married daughter. Her husband is a laborer.

The incident created quite a bit of excitement in West Ninth street.

WILD ANIMAL LURKING NEAR WILLIAM'S CREEK

Connersville News: What is it? They killed a "live" wolf, according to the Rushville Republican, over at Fountain town, the other evening, and something even more fierce is lurking in the bottoms of Big Williams creek, according to unquestionable authority. Some say it is a catamount or wild cat.

WILL EXEMPLIFY THE UNWRITTEN SECRET WORK

O. A. Robinson, Great Sachem of Indiana Redmen will attend the meeting of the local lodge this evening and will exemplify the unwritten work of the order.

The W. R. C. will meet with Mrs. Wm. Bainbridge tonight to complete arrangements for their Thanksgiving dinner.

A PROCLAMATION.

WHEREAS, the President of the United States and the Governor of the State of Indiana, by proclamation, have designated and set apart Thursday, the 28th day of November, 1907, as a day of Thanksgiving and praise, and as a legal holiday.

Now, therefore, in conformity with said proclamation, I, Harvey M. Cowing, Mayor of the City of Rushville, Indiana, do hereby recommend that on said day all business, both public and private, be suspended in said city so far as possible, and that the inhabitants of said city fittingly observe the day in accordance with the spirit and purpose for which it has been set apart.

HARVEY M. COWING, Mayor.

MORMON ELDER'S HAVE ARRIVED IN THIS CITY

Will Expound Their Peculiar Doctrines to Residents of This Community

Two Mormon elders reached this city today from New Castle, where they have been preaching and it is understood that they will endeavor to expound their doctrines to the people of this city for the next few days.

The last Mormons who were in this city caused quite a spirit of censure by their teachings, and barely escaped being egged out of Rushville.

SUDDEN CALL OF GRAND JURY

Court Orders That Body in Session Today to Make Investigations

WERE DISMISSED AGAIN

A Number of Carthage Citizens Summoned—Talk of Blind Tiger Violations

Judge Sparks called a special session of the grand jury today to make an investigation of some alleged transgressions of the law.

A number of Carthage people were summoned and appeared before the grand jury. For some time rumors have been going the rounds to the effect that certain Carthage denizens were violating the Blind Tiger laws.

It is thought that the grand jury will be dismissed this evening after a fruitful day's work.

FELL OUT OF BED AND OUT WINDOW

Grand Hotel Guests Startled by Roomer's Fall—Thought Place Was on Fire

A peculiar accident occurred at the Grand hotel this morning about 2 o'clock, and a number of the roomers in that domicile thought the world had come to an end.

Ed Lushell and "McGinty" Hite room together. At the hour mentioned above Lushell awoke to find that his room mate had all the bed covering. He gave a blanket a jerk, and it came with such ease from under the sleeping man that Lushell fell out a window nearby and down on the tin roof ten feet below. Luckily he escaped serious injury. The breaking glass and fall on the roof awakened nearly all the guests in the house, many of them rushing into the halls attired negligee thinking there was a fire.

HOOSIER WELCOME

Indiana Officially Receives Gary Into Her Sisterhood of Cities.

AN IMPRESSIVE AFFAIR

Great Banquet Marks the Formal Opening of Indiana's New
"Magic City of Steel."

Governor Hanly Gave Official Prestige to Affair of Much Moment
In the State.

Gary, Ind., Nov. 26.—The city of Gary, which eighteen months ago consisted of sand dunes, scrub oaks and sloughs, celebrated its entry among the municipalities of Indiana by a banquet last night. Governor Hanly was the guest of honor, and welcomed the new city, which now contains over 12,000 people, to its place in the Hoosier state. The governor's speech was the climax of a series of welcomes, which began with State Senator A. J. Bowser of Chesterton, who welcomed Gary to the legislative district, and Congressman E. D. Crumpacker of Valparaiso, who did a like service to the new city for the Tenth congressional district.

Among the other speakers were President F. A. Delano of the Wabash railroad; E. J. Buffington, president of the Illinois Steel company and Indiana Steel company, who spoke for the United States Steel corporation; Hon. H. B. Brown, president of Valparaiso university; S. E. Kiser of the Chicago Record-Herald, who spoke for "The Press," and Wilbur D. Nesbit, who responded for the Indiana Society of Chicago. Homer J. Carr was toastmaster.

About 150 of the leading citizens of the Calumet region sat at the table and joined in the celebration, which really marked Gary's beginning as one of the leading cities of northern Indiana. The entire judiciary of Lake and Porter counties and all the members of the legislature were present as guests. The United States Steel corporation was represented by most of its officers in the West. The Hotel Gary, where the banquet was held, was profusely decorated. The city was also illuminated for the first time, the streets being spanned by electric arches in all the colors of the rainbow. It has been officially announced by the United States Steel corporation that the financial stringency will not stop the building of the steel mills here, which are to be the largest in the world.

DARING BANK ROBBERY

Illinois Bankers Forced Into Vault
While Robbers Help Themselves.

Bloomington, Ill., Nov. 26.—Two men suspected of being the Clinton bank robbers were arrested today, one at Kenney and the other at Spaulding.

Bloomington, Ill., Nov. 26.—The State bank at Clinton was held up and robbed of $2,200 in coin shortly before 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon by two men, who made their escape. It was just a few minutes after closing time when the men appeared in the bank and with drawn revolvers forced Cashier Murphy, Assistant Cashier Argo and Bookkeeper John Young to enter the big vault, which they locked. The bulk of the money had already been placed in the currency safe in the vault and the time lock set, but $2,200 in gold and silver remained on the counter. This the robbers shoved into a bag and took with them to the Hotel Henion, where they had previously engaged a room. They had arranged the money in rolls so that it could be easily carried, and were just about to leave the hotel when officers learned of their presence and attempted to break in the door. Before they succeeded, however, the robbers jumped from a window onto an adjoining roof, taking only the $700 in gold and leaving $1,500 in silver in the room. It was dark when the men escaped from the hotel, and all trace of them was lost. Before the highwaymen left the bank building they called up the telephone operator and requested her to send someone to the bank and release the three bank officials imprisoned in the vault. Charles Parker, collector for the bank, was the only person who knew the combination to the vault, and after a short search he was found and hurried to the assistance of the imprisoned men. When Parker opened the vault door the three men were almost suffocated.

McCoy Indictments Dismissed.

Rensselaer, Ind., Nov. 26.—The last of the embezzlement cases against T. J. McCoy, the bank wrecker, now serving a term in prison, and against his father, Alfred McCoy, now of Queen City, Mo., have been dismissed in the Newton circuit court. This bars further criminal prosecution against the McCoy's, growing out of the wrecking of the bank in Rensselaer. Friends of McCoy have been active, looking to a parole, but the pardon board has refused to extend clemency as long as indictments were hanging over him. It is now thought that McCoy will be paroled at an early meeting of the board. The depositors who lost money in the McCoy bank are not taking kindly to a parole.

Weston in Good Shape.

Laporte, Ind., Nov. 26.—Edward Payson Weston, the pedestrian, cheered by fully 5,000 persons; who in automobiles, carriages and on foot, lined the streets through which he would pass, came into Laporte at 7:40 o'clock last night and not a bit tired, though having walked from Ligonier since midnight, a distance of sixty-nine miles. He went immediately to the Teegarden hotel, where he was given a rub-down, ate supper and rested. After a short nap he started on, expecting to reach Chesterton nineteen miles west of here and just fifty miles from Chicago, before he retired for the night. In reply to calls for a speech, Weston, in a voice that was strong and exhibited no trace of fatigue, assured all that he was in excellent condition and perfectly able to finish the walk in as strong condition as when he started. His intention is to reach Chicago this evening, one day ahead of the time he made on the same route forty years ago.

CURRENCY FAMINE

Has Spent Its Force, According to the Best Estimates of the Situation.

TENSION IS LOOSENING

Approach of the Hundred Million Mark in Gold Engagements Creates a New Feeling of Easiness.

Discussion of Possibilities of Treasury Relief Plan Has Fallen Into Abeysance.

New York, Nov. 26.—The stock market showed no disposition at any time Monday to follow up the advance of Saturday. The movement seemed to be considered ill-advised on second thought on the ground that a resumption of an active advance in stocks would be premature before the banking operations of the country have been restored to normal. An early resumption of cash payments by banks all over the country is now looked for with growing confidence, but the conditions which this resumption may disclose are awaited before seeking to enter on speculative commitments. There was a renewal also of some of the urgent liquidation in special stocks which was such an unsettling feature in the whole market last week. The selling out of loans was the accepted explanation of the weakness. The whole list of railroad stocks was more or less affected by the contents of the regular weekly reports from railroad traffic officials. These were quite uniform in the admission that arrears of railroad traffic were worked off or were being rapidly cleared up and that idle freight cars were accumulating. Published estimates as to the extent to which the working classes had been cut down in railroad enterprises made a formidable showing and, coupled with the heavy outward tide of returning foreigners pointing to the same conclusion, had a rather depressing effect on sentiment.

On the other side of the account was a strong advance in copper, both in London and New York. Attention was attracted also by the large number of retractions of previous cancellations of orders in various lines of wholesale trade. This was regarded as significant of the extent to which the first force of the reaction might be considered as overrunning itself, with the promise of subsequent rebound. There was further distinct easing of the premium on currency, and this was the most important development of the day.

International exchange houses in New York reported that additional supplies of gold were offered to their agents in France, but that the decline in the premium on currency here wiped out the margin of profit on closing the transaction. These are all highly significant occurrences and mark unmistakably the loosening of the tension of the currency famine. The call money market also was appreciably easier. Funds are still lacking, however, in the time loan market and the commercial paper market also is practically suspended. Taken in connection with the favorable showing of the Saturday bank statement, however, the responses in the various departments of the money markets left no doubt of the positive improvement in conditions now definitely inaugurated. Careful compilations of the gold movement indicated a rapid approach to the $100,000,000 mark in the aggregate of the engagements. Under these circumstances the discussion of the possibilities of the treasury relief plan fell largely into abeyance as having served much of its intended purpose so far as it had helped in the restoration of confidence, while the course of events had detracted from the importance of the question of its final working out.

Washington Is Encouraged.

Washington, Nov. 26.—A more confident tone in regard to the success of the new loans prevails at the treasury department than at any time since the announcement of the loans a week ago. There seems to be a general desire among the bankers in New York, Chicago and other sub-treasury cities and financial centers, to resume currency payments at the earliest possible moment, and it is believed among the treasury officials that a complete understanding has been arrived at between the banks in New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Cincinnati, Chicago, St. Louis, New Orleans and San Francisco by which there will be a general resumption of currency payments within the next few days, and possibly before the close of the present week.

Expert in Mrs. Bradley's Behalf.

Washington, Nov. 26.—That Mrs. Annie M. Bradley was insane at the time she shot former Senator Arthur Brown of Utah in this city on Dec. 8 last, was the opinion of Dr. Fred M. Barton of Georgetown university, and a specialist in nervous diseases, expressed at the trial of Mrs. Bradley. Dr. Barton's testimony followed the reading to him of a hypothetical question of 13,000 words covering the history of Mrs. Bradley's relations with Senator Brown from the day she met him to the day of the tragedy. Other experts will testify to the same, while the state has an equal number to oppose this theory.

RIOTOUS STRIKERS

Streetcar at Louisville Attacked by Violent Mob.

Louisville, Ky., Nov. 26.—The most serious riot thus far of the streetcar strike occurred last night, and as a result two men were shot and two policemen were injured by stones and clubs. A number of heads were cracked by the police. The trouble occurred on the Fourth Avenue line near Kentucky street, a fashionable residence neighborhood, shortly before 7 o'clock in the evening. A south-bound car loaded full was suddenly attacked by 600 or 700 strike sympathizers. A hail of stones, pistol shots and clubs was poured into the car, the conductor and a policeman returning the fire, with what effect is not known. The motorman hurried the car out of range, although himself and a man and woman passenger are declared to have been struck by bullets.

Twenty police arrived on the scene a few minutes later in automobiles and surrounded about a hundred of the mob in an alley near by. The mob broke through the cordon, fighting fiercely, and although many heads were cracked, all got away save F. M. All, a discharged streetcar employee, who was shot through the abdomen, and four prisoners. Sergeant Con Wickham and Policeman Robt. Brown were severely injured by boulders and clubs. M. Ford a youth passing on a bicycle, was shot in the foot. Of the injured all save F. M. All will recover. All's condition is critical.

A BLOODY BATTLE

Twelve Hundred Tribesmen Slain in Fight With French.

Maghnia, Algeria, Nov. 26.—Ten thousand of the fiercest Benis Nassen tribesmen swooped down on the French camp Sunday and were beaten off with a loss of 1,200 killed. The fighting continued for a long time and was conducted on the part of the tribesmen apparently with total disregard for their lives. At one time the French infantry were in danger of being surrounded, but they finally disengaged themselves from their perilous position by a most brilliant charge of the Spahis. The rout of the Arabs was completed by vigorous shelling by the artillery. The French loss was eight killed.

The Arabs were not discouraged by this severe repulse, but reformed their forces and in addition directed their efforts to rousing other tribes. The fighting was resumed, but with what result is not now known here. During the pursuit of the enemy the Spahis were drawn into ambush and Lieutenant Rose, who was riding in front, fell, riddled with bullets, but the troopers rallied and threw themselves upon the Arabs in ambush, cutting them to pieces. The French forces followed up their advantage and, scouring the country, killed many of the fugitives.

Vesuvius Creates Alarm.

Naples, Nov. 26.—Mount Vesuvius, after two months of activity, is emitting clouds of dense smoke, accompanied by considerable roaring from three fissures around the old crater. Some alarm is felt by the population in the surrounding towns in view of the recent earthquakes in Calabria. It is being recalled that the great eruption of April, 1906, followed the Calabria earthquake of 1905.

The Caleb Powers Case.

Georgetown, Ky., Nov. 26.—The roster of the second venire from Grant county in the Caleb Powers case was called yesterday afternoon. About half asked to be excused and most of them were. On affidavit of Caleb Powers, motion for further time for consideration of commonwealth affidavits was granted.

Killed Her Rival.

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 26.—Maddened by the belief that her husband's affection had been stolen from her by Mrs. Sallie Brown, Mrs. Annie P. Maith shot and instantly killed Mrs. Brown. Mrs. Maith went to the nearest police station and gave herself up.

Didn't Know It Was Loaded.

Terre Haute, Ind., Nov. 26.—Thos. A. Cleveland, a cooper, was accidentally shot and killed here last night by his brother, William Cleveland. It was the old story of a gun which was not loaded but went off. William, a younger brother, was playing with a 22-calibre rifle in the Cleveland home. He pointed it toward a door and fired. At the same instant Thomas entered the door. The bullet penetrated his left breast. He expired a few minutes later.

Marshal Stops His Career.

Almosa, Col., Nov. 26.—After setting fire to the Palma hotel and attempting to commit suicide, Dalillo Rodriguez, a government forest reserve agent from Espanola, N. M., stabbed C. B. Anderson of Cold Water, Mich., to death, seriously stabbed and assaulted four other men and finally attempted to kill City Marshal John Baumasher, who was trying to arrest him. The marshal then shot and killed the Mexican. It is believed that he was insane.

Weights 28 Pounds.

Westerly, R. I., Nov. 26.—The Thanksgiving turkey which Horace Vose annually sends to the president of the United States was shipped by Mr. Vose to President Roosevelt yesterday. This year's bird, however, was raised by Jeremiah H. Brown. It weighs twenty-eight pounds, is of the bronze variety and has a mixture of wild blood.

MONEY TALK!

Roosevelt Says: "There is no particle of risk involved in letting business take its natural course and the people can help themselves and the country most by putting back into active circulation the money they are hoarding."

Bryan says: "The man who will draw his money out of the bank now when he does not need it, is in the same class as the man who would refuse to aid his country in time of war."

Walter E. Smith endorses the statements of both these great political leaders and would also have it understood that he has plenty of money to loan on any kind of approved security, long time and easy weekly or monthly payments.

Promise to Wreck Any Reform Movement.

ADDRESS TO THE THRONE

This Is the Rock on Which Any Attempt to Form a Working Center Promises to Split.

Each of the Numerous Diverse Elements in the Duma Is Insistent on Its Own Program.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 26.—The general debate on the address to the throne, which began in the duma today, promises to shipwreck any attempt to form a working center in that body. The discussion of the address was postponed on Saturday in order to allow the various parties to come to some understanding.

M. Guchkoff, the leader of the Octoberist party, labored incessantly to secure the unanimous adoption of the address, but his efforts at harmony were shattered by the uncompromising insistence of the reactionary members on the recognition in the address of the emperor's autocratic power.

This has forced the Constitutional Democrats into opposition. The Polish members will fight for the clause recognizing the aspirations of subordinate nationalities in Russia, while the Social Democrats will be satisfied with nothing except a revolutionary pronouncement. Only the members of the Octoberist party will support the address, the text of which was purposely made colorless.

Up to the present the Octoberists have made no decision with regard to the demand of M. Chicheglovitch, minister of justice, for the suspension of the St. Petersburg deputy, M. Kolubinski, who is a colleague of Prof. Milukoff, leader of the Constitutional Democrats, but many are opposed to an invasion of the privileges of the duma and will vote with the Constitutional Democrats against such suspension, unless the ministry produces adequate evidence on which to base a trial.

NEW YORKERS AROUSED

Elimination of Christianity From Schools Creates a Storm.

New York, Nov. 26.—Plans for a great public protest, against the decision of the committee on elementary schools of this city to eliminate all reference to Jesus Christ and Christmas from the school exercises and to abolish the celebration of Christmas festivals were made by the Methodist Episcopal Ministers' association of New York. The ministers' association adopted a resolution declaring that this decision is a misapprehension of the rule against sectarian education and out of harmony with the underlying principles of a Christian nation.

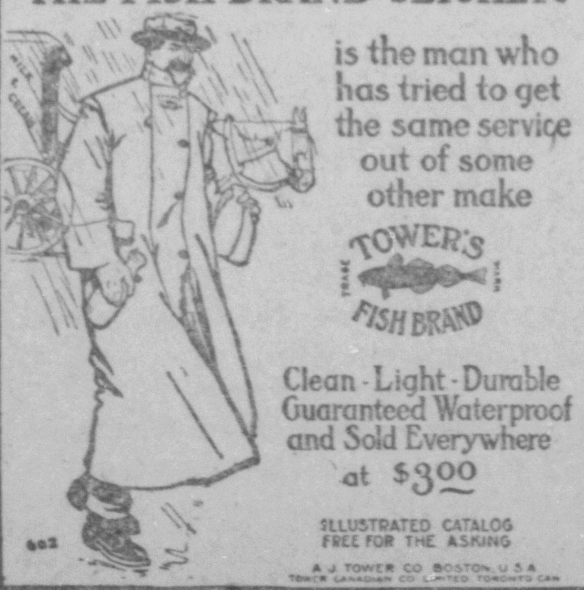

Diplomat Attempted Suicide. Washington, Nov. 26.—R. M. Bombacer, acting chancellor of the Cuban legation here, was last night found in his apartments with the gas turned on. He was removed to a hospital, where his condition was said to be serious. He left two notes, one of which was addressed to the public and read: "Good-bye, everybody; I am going to leave this world because I have not the courage to endure it."

The Fulton French Trial. Beattyville, Ky., Nov. 26.—Nine witnesses were examined Monday in the case of B. Fulton French for the assassination of James Marcum. Most of those who testified witnessed the killing of Marcum and the actual events just preceding and following it. The witnesses gave the same testimony as on former trials of feudists who were charged with complicity in the assassination of Marcum.

Other Indictments in Sight. New York, Nov. 26.—The Kings county grand jury is investigating the affairs of the Jenkins Trust company of Brooklyn, which has several branches in that borough, and the investigation may, it is said, result in several indictments being returned. The investigation of the Borough bank of Brooklyn is also being continued.

Preferred Death to Arrest. New York, Nov. 26.—Louis Straus, senior member of the firm of Louis Straus & Co., importers, took his life last night by swallowing poison in the presence of central office detectives.

THE MAN WHO SWEARS BY THE FISH BRAND SLICKER

who had come to his home to arrest him. The charge is said to have grown out of the disposition of $20,000 of the firm's money.

Compared With Last Year. Washington, Nov. 26.—The surplus of government receipts over expenditures thus far for the fiscal year beginning July 1 last stands at the nominal amount of $148,872, while the surplus for the same period a year ago was $12,332,469.

Double Tragedy in Speak-Easy. Ashland, Ky., Nov. 26.—In a speak-easy in Carter county, Harlan Ross and Jack Conn were killed during a pistol battle. Three others were seriously wounded. This makes eleven tragedies in the same place within the past year.

Will Seek a New Trial. Nashville, Ind., Nov. 26.—Attorneys for Thomas Durnall, convicted of embezzlement while serving as recorder of Brown county, will argue a motion for a new trial Dec. 3. Durnall was penniless when he retired from office two years ago, and since that time he has been a day laborer. An expert accountant found him to be $380 short, and the county obtained judgment against his bondsmen for that amount. He has a wife and nine children.

And to his brothers and sisters we extend our heartfelt sympathy in this hour of sorrow, and although we know that their grief is too profound to be erased by mere expression of sympathy, yet we consider it a great solace to know that the good done by one is not lost at the grave, but that it still remains with us. In this, his whole life contributed. He was a friend of all and he never wronged a man. To know him was but to love him. And after having spent a useful life, he has left us many things which may well be emulated. And now that he is gone the prayers of all who knew him are offered up for the repose of his soul, and Today Thomas W. Lawson issues an address to the country and a communication to the President, giving his views on the financial situation and a digest of numerous reports received by him from all over the country. Mr. Lawson says he has been requested by the "System" and Government officials to refrain from utterances until things quieted down. But, he says that information received by him from over 40,000 thoughtful people show him that from the beginning of the crisis until now the "System" has gone from bad to worse, until he has now decided that it would be little short of treason to longer remain silent. Hence his address will appear today in all papers who will consent to print it. He promises facts that are sound and curing instead of disaster-intensifying.

It was thought that the financial flurry would soon be over, and in fact there is really no good reason why it should continue, but nevertheless the scare has stampeded some of the people. All the large manufacturing concerns over the country are laying off hundreds and thousands of workmen. It being at the beginning of winter, it will surely create a hardship among the laboring classes, and the result will be felt in business circles as well. It will not stop there, but it is likely to lower the prices of farm products. Already the price of hogs has gone down.

A member of the Indianapolis Builders Exchange remarked to the Republican when asked what the business outlook was, that the building trade was not doing much. He further stated that the inactivity among the contractors was not caused so much by the financial flurry as the scarcity, indifference and insolence of labor. That they were harassed all summer because they could not get the labor—that laborers did not care whether they worked or not and consequently the contractors could not depend on them. He thought that this money scare would probably make times a little harder, and this might have the effect of easing up the labor question somewhat.

While we have been enjoying exceptional prosperity the past few years, the "labor stringency" was almost unbearable, and if this condition is eased up a little by the money stringency, it will then be an "ill wind that will blow somebody some good."

The war on the saloon still continues in New Castle and a great deal of argument pro and con is being produced both on the street and in the newspapers. Last Saturday a minister of that city, in a lengthy article in the Daily Courier, figured the cost of the liquor traffic. On Monday, Andy Ward replied in a two-column article in the same paper, giving statistics and figures from a business standpoint. Andy Ward went from here some years ago and engaged in the saloon business at New Castle and has become a well-to-do and influential citizen, and it seems he is leading the anti-remonstrance forces. At least he closes his article thus:

"The saloon man can compel every man that signs this paper of attorney to go into court and swear as to the correctness of his signature, and if a change of venue is taken from this county, he can be compelled to follow it to the other court for the same purpose and without remuneration, because he is a party to the suit. If anyone has been led to sign this and he wants to be relieved of the same he may do so by calling me by phone at any time."

Last week the Senate of Alabama passed a Prohibition bill, and that State will be dry beginning January 1st, 1909. The Prohibition measure was strongly opposed and particularly by the city of Mobile, which sent a delegation of its best women to work against it. The following dispatch from Mobile, shows the feeling that exists there:

That the Democratic party has been deceived, betrayed is the claim that is being broadly made in Mobile, and predictions are offered here that the action of the Senate in passing the prohibition bill, despite the Democratic platform, will result in a new political party in Alabama.

An indication of the bitterness of the "home rulers" is shown by the following telegram sent to State Senator Hamburger by M. J. McDermott, president of the bank of Mobile:

"Unless anti-prohibitionists win today, please give notice that Mobile is prepared to secede from the State of Alabama and organize home government and cease to be dominated by our country cousins, whose efforts to paralyze Mobile will not be tolerated."

Mr. McDermott is one of the largest holders of real estate in Mobile. He is foremost in all public affairs and has been regarded as a conservative citizen.

This shows with what tenacity the people of the South still cling to the right of nullification and secession.

Pierre Gray of this city, son of former Governor Isaac P. Gray, died yesterday afternoon of pneumonia at his home on North Pennsylvania street. He was taken sick at Winchester nearly two weeks ago, and was unconscious most of the time for a week before his death. Mr. Gray was born at New Madison, O., May 2, 1853. He spent his early life at Union City, Ind., with his parents. In 1884 he came to Indianapolis when his father was inaugurated Governor, and he served with him for four years as his private secretary. He was a graduate of Indiana university and a well-known

There is no longer any doubt that the Taggart men are going after the control of the Democratic organization. They are moving about in a quiet way and the indications are that their followers are already lining up. Party leaders said today that Mr. Taggart will have less trouble now than ever before in electing district chairmen who will be friendly to him, as it is generally known that he is favorable to the nomination of Bryan. Mr. Taggart has also been doing everything possible during the last year and a half to harmonize the various factions, and his work is appreciated even by the men who have been opposed to him. Up to this time the opposition to him is leaderless and many politicians believe that he will be able to win before it gets well under way.

The Democratic editors of the Eighth district are said to be engaged in a movement to bring about a condition by which Congressman John A. M. Adair of Portland can become a candidate for governor. Adair wants to get into the race, but Judge R. K. Erwin of Decatur and C. K. McCullough of Anderson also aspire to the same office. They and their friends feel that Adair can be re-elected to congress and that he ought to give them a chance to run for governor. It is said, however, that a majority of the editors of the district met at Muncie yesterday and decided to ask Erwin and McCullough to step aside so that Adair can have the entire district behind him as a candidate for governor.

Michael E. Foley of Crawfordsville, who is regarded as one of the greatest orators in the Democratic party in Indiana, has about decided to become a candidate for congress in the Ninth district. He has been here several times during the last few weeks consulting his friends about the matter. He believes that there is a good chance to defeat Congressman Charles B. Landis. He is being urged by prominent men in every county in his district to make the race. He will decide the matter within the next few days. If he becomes a candidate he intends to make a house-to-house canvass of the district.

CURRENT COMMENT

Money Backed by Wealth.

One of England's foremost authorities on economic conditions, Lord Avebury, thinks that the currency troubles of this country can be settled by following the course adopted by England in 1844 and setting up a central bank. The Bank of England issues in an amount fixed by law notes against securities. Any extra amount of notes which may be needed must be secured by gold in the bank's vaults. The bank operates under a charter which may be modified or revoked by the legislature at pleasure. The bank is the financial agent of the government, manages the public debt, collects the revenue and is the bank of other banks.

In this country it is held, on one hand, that the financial situation would be helped by a currency based upon assets. The more conservative advocates of this plan would have a central bank of issue similar to the Bank of England or the Imperial Bank of Germany, with the government as the dominant stockholder. Such a bank would be in effect the United States treasury and have behind it the faith of the nation. In this way, it is argued, the whole credit system of the country could be wisely controlled and reckless borrowing prevented.

A measure having the approval of many prominent bankers will early come before congress. It is substantially a credit currency plan, having for its object the creation of a currency which may be increased in volume or reduced, according to the needs of a business. It is, however, in the na-

Navy's Present Standard Should Be Maintained.

By Secretary of the Navy METCALF.

THE efficiency of the United States navy should be kept up to a standard where it will be excelled ONLY by the sea power of Great Britain.

With our immense coast line to defend and our large merchant marine to be protected, it is IMPERATIVE that the naval force of this country should be maintained IN SECOND RANK, as it is so classed by naval authorities at present. In rating the naval force of the large countries they are placed in rank according to efficiency, which includes the fighting strength, the number of ships, the personnel both of officers and men.

THIS COUNTRY MUST KEEP PACE WITH THE PROGRESS AND EXPANSION MADE BY FOREIGN POWERS IN POINT OF STRENGTH ON WATER. AS THE EUROPEAN GOVERNMENTS INCREASE THE SIZE AND EFFECTIVENESS OF THEIR WATER FORCE SO ALSO MUST WE ADD SHIPS THAT WILL BRING OUR NAVAL RESOURCES TO A POINT WHICH WILL ENTITLE THE UNITED STATES NAVY TO OCCUPY SECOND PLACE IN THE RATING OF NAVAL POWERS.

At present as well as for some time Great Britain has had by far the most powerful navy, with a total tonnage of 1,000,000, including nearly eighty battleships. Such a large array of warships IT IS UNNECESSARY FOR THIS COUNTRY TO MAINTAIN, but our available forces should never be allowed to fall below the efficiency of any other country.

ture of an expedient and not expected to solve the currency problem as effectually as might be done perhaps under the European system of a central bank. Our present system is right in tendencies, but the needs of the country call for a wider distribution of currency upon sound securities which the government can guarantee without risk or expense to the nation and also without showing favor to any particular interests or class.

There are able bankers who believe that the plan of a central bank will never be adopted in the United States for political and social reasons and who also hold that the enlargement of privileges or the removal of restrictions of national banks to provide an elastic currency would prove a form of dangerous expansion. Bankers of this class have no confidence that banks of issue would be able to withstand the pressure of speculation whenever the traffic in securities might become rampant. It is only fair to the public intelligence to say that neither the banking group nor the economists in congress have so completely mastered the subject that a consensus of the competent approaches unanimity.

English View of a Third Term. Editor Labouchere of London Truth thinks that President Roosevelt will be his own successor and offers the following comment:

Were I an American I should be against this "general" principle. No matter what a man's abilities may be, it is idle to suppose that there can only be one man in the United States who is fit to be its president. History has shown that the best kings are more dangerous to self government than the worst. And what is true of kings is equally applicable to republican presidents, and probably even more so, for they have more power than most constitutional kings. President Washington did no wiser and more patriotic thing than in refusing to be president a third time.

Mr. Labouchere argues the advantage of a term of seven or ten years with the proviso that there shall be no second term and adds:

The great danger to a republic is that one of its citizens should be so popular that, under republican forms, he becomes to all intents and purposes a sovereign. Once practically president for life, the idea is encouraged that it would be better to accept his son as his successor, instead of leaving this to a popular election. Soon loyalty to the family of the ruler is inculcated as a patriotic virtue, and the devotion to the sovereign replaces devotion to the country.

If these financial pinches were always followed by the legal pinching of the wildcat trust and banking concerns the general public would gladly "grin and bear" their end of it.

ASK FOR HEADLEE'S VIEWS Indianapolis Star Will Publish Sentiment of County School Superintendents

The attention of Rush county is called to the new idea in public instruction, by a letter to County Superintendent W. O. Headlee, from B. F. Lawrence, managing editor of the Indianapolis Star, who desires to get the opinion of Indiana Superintendents on the question. Mr. Lawrence's letter in part is as follows:

"Francis G. Blair, State Superintendent of public instruction of Illinois, has expressed himself in favor of teaching of courtship in the schools of that State. Says Supt. Blair: 'I believe and believe it thoroughly that courtship and marriage should be made subjects of instruction in our Illinois school, just as much as spelling and arithmetic. Why do we spend years and millions with our children instructing them in theoretical studies and turn away entirely from the things that are closest to the life of the child after school days?'"

"Supt. Blair does not insist that a new department of instruction be added. Rather he suggests that the teaching and practice be made a part of the instruction in English literature, masterpieces of English literature being taken as text books."

Supt. Headlee will answer the Star into this weighty question, but was not today able to give an opinion as to whether such instruction and additional study would be especially adapted for "schools" in the Hoosier State.

THE OBITUARY OF LIVE MEN.

CHRISTIAN FOX

Let's Send the Flowers Over Now.—Dead Men Can Neither See, Smell or Appreciate.

Chris Fox is the kind of saloon keepers they had in the Old Testament. For years he conducted a "thirst cure" near the Panhandle depot in this city and during all of those years was never able to master the time table on that road. Many a man has missed his train on information given out by Chris—and they ought to have missed it, for you can hardly imagine a man telling a thing with more of a spirit of "chancing their wing" than Chris used to call off the arrival of trains.

During the long years he shoved the foaming amber fluid over the "American timber" he managed to accumulate enough of the coveted, tainted money to buy a farm of, some one hundred and sixty acres, and has now retired to live the life of a respectable farmer, and to put the big apples on top for the remainder of his life.

Every "gag" that was ever invented in the fertile brain of men to defraud the saloon man, has been handed to Chris, and sometimes they gave it to him in bunches and several times in succession. (He is very absent minded.) But in spite of all of this, those same fellows were obliged to come to him later and ask a favor when they were in want. And they would get it too; but Chris always took advantage of the situation, and with a smile on his red face which looked like it was ready to burst, would say: "Now, who's the jackass?" With his little eyes sparkling in glee, he would say (after granting the request, of course) "That's rubbing it in; on heen, I guess." It was his idea of the story of the "coals of fire."

Chris is one of the best natured men you would meet in a day's travel, and for that very reason he has always been the butt of many framed-up jokes. They have even dug down in the sacred old almanacs of the early sixties to find jokes, brush them up and then charge them to Chris' account. For instance, they tell the story about a trip he contemplated taking to Columbus, Indiana, to visit a friend. At the ticket office he asked for a ticket to Columbus.

"Columbus, Indiana, or Columbus, Ohio?" said the agent.

"Oh, heen don't care," he responded, "which is the cheapest?"

A few years ago he made a trip to Germany, the home of nativity. It had been years since he heard from the folks he left behind, and being fairly well fixed in this world's goods he thought he would surprise them by taking along a nice present for all. Much time was spent before he left, deliberating what would please this one and that one; for some he purchased jewelry and for others he fixed up a liberal purse of gold coin. One can hardly appreciate his feelings on arriving at the place of his birth, when he found that all his kin, including his own sisters were dead and had been laid away in the little churchyard beside his father and mother for many years. It was with a heavy heart, that he trod about the village visiting the familiar scenes of his boyhood: it was not the home coming he had anticipated all the years he was laying by a neat sum of money each year that he might be able to return to that land of "home, sweet home" with many interesting stories of America and entertain them while he was there after the fashion of princes and princesses. And that was the reason Chris didn't stay as long as he had planned. Chris' trip to Germany was a great disappointment to him.

In newspapers throughout Indiana our street commissioner T. Melville Greenlee, is heralded as the "kid glove official." The Kokomo Tribune had quite a lengthy article on Greenlee last Saturday. Nothing like being disingenuous.

About the worst thing you can say against a man is that he is of so little consequence that he is not even asked to sign petitions—not even a "hopeless appeal" for a union depot.

INDIANA POLITICS

BY ROBERT G. TUCKER

Indianapolis, Ind., November 26.—At a conference held at the Denison hotel between Fred L. Felck, chairman of the Brotherhood of Trainmen of the state, and Theodore Perry, chairman of the State Federation of Labor, preliminary plans were agreed on for taking part in the fight to be waged by the different political parties in Indiana this fall. The conference was the result of the meeting of railroad employes in Indianapolis on Sunday. The two chairmen made the preliminary arrangements for two big mass meetings of organized labor to be held in Indiana within the next month. The first will be held at Muncie on Dec. 8 and another will take place at Fort Wayne Dec. 15. Other mass meetings will be held from time to time. "These meetings," said Theo-

SOCIETY NEWS

The Coterie, fourteen strong, met with Mrs. Phil Wilk on Monday afternoon. "The Novelists of the Eighteenth Century" was the subject of the afternoon's study, and was most profitably presented by Mrs. Wilk in her paper. Two new members, Mrs. Hargrove and Mrs. Tevis were given a hearty welcome. Mrs. Jesse Pugh was elected to fill the vacancy caused by Mrs. Bennett's resignation. The next meeting will be held with Mrs. Warder Wyatt, December ninth.

Ed Austen and wife entertained at dinner Sunday Mr. and Mrs. O. F. Guffin and Mr. and Mrs. Isom Stevens and family.

Dr. Will C. Smith will entertain at a stag party this evening Ab. Denning, Ol. Dale and Homer Havens, in honor of Louis Pugh, of Minneapolis, who was a former schoolmate of the local doctor.

RICHMOND COMING ON THANKSGIVING

Quaker Lads, Who Suffered Defeat Recently, Will Come Strengthened

What promises to be one of the best foot ball games of the season, and withal, one of the best contests ever witnessed here, will be the fight for supremacy on the gridiron Thursday afternoon at the South Main street grounds, between the Rushville and Richmond high school teams.

Rushville is stronger than ever in the history of the local school, and has two or three stars who bid fair to shine on the college gridiron before another two years rolls by.

While Richmond suffered an ignominious defeat at the hands—and feet—of the Rushville lads recently, they declared two of their best men were off and they are coming on Thanksgiving day with a crowd of rooters and try to recover the lost honors.

The game promises to be the best attended foot ball game ever played in Rushville.

The Spoilers.

By REX E. BEACH.

He meditated for a time. "Then today it shall be. I'll shirk the fight, I'll sacrifice what shreds of duty have clung to me, because the fever for you is in my bones, and it seems to me I'd do murder for it. That's the kind of a man I am, and I have no pride in myself because of it. But I've always been that way. We'll ride to the Sign of the Sled. It's a romantic little roadhouse ten miles from here, perched high above the Snake river trail. We'll take dinner there together."

"But the papers?"

"I'll have them with me. We'll start in an hour."

"In an hour," she echoed lifelessly and left him.

He chuckled grimly and seized the telephone. "Central—call the Sled roadhouse—seven rings on the Snake river branch. Hello! That you, Shortz? This is Struve. Anybody at the house? Good. Turn them away if they come and say that you're closed. None of your business. I'll be out about dark, so have dinner for two. Spread yourself and keep the place clear. Goodbye."

Strengthened by Glenister's note, Helen went straight to the other woman and this time was not kept waiting nor greeted with sneers, but found Cherry creaked in a shy dignity, which she clasped tightly about herself. Under her visitor's incoherence she lost her diffidence, however, and, when Helen had finished, remarked, with decision: "Don't go with him. He's a bad man."

"But I must. The blood of those men will be on me if I don't stop this tragedy. If those papers tell the tale I think they do. I can call off my uncle and make McNamara give back the mines. You said Struve told you the whole scheme. Did you see the proof?"

"No, I have only his word, but he spoke of those documents repeatedly, saying they contained his instructions to tie up the mines in order to give a foothold for the lawsuits. He bragged that the rest of the gang were in his power and that he could land them in the penitentiary for conspiracy. That's all."

"It's the only chance," said Helen. "They are sending soldiers to the Midas to lie in ambush, and you must warn the vigilantes." Cherry paled at this and ejaculated:

"Good Lord! Roy said he'd lead an attack tonight." The two stared at each other.

"If I succeed with Struve I can stop it all—this injustice and crime—everything."

"Do you realize what you're risking?" Cherry demanded. "That man is an animal. You'll have to kill him to save yourself, and he'll never give up those proofs."

"Yes, he will," said Helen fiercely, "and I defy him to harm me. The Sign of the Sled is a public roadhouse with a landlord, a telephone and other guests. Will you warn Mr. Glenister about the troops?"

"I will, and bless you for a brave girl. Wait a moment." Cherry took from the dresser her tiny revolver. "Don't hesitate to use this. I want you to know also that I'm sorry for what I said yesterday."

As she hurried away Helen realized with a shock the change that the past few months had wrought in her. In truth, it was as Glenister had said, his northland worked strangely with its denizens. What of that shrinking girl who had stepped out of the sheltered life, strong only in her untried honesty, to become a hunted, harried thing, juggling with honor and reputation, in her heart a half formed fear that she might kill a man this night to gain her end? The elements were molding her with irresistible hands. Roy's contact with the primitive had not roughened him more quickly than had hers.

She met her appointment with Struve, and they rode away together, he talkative and elated, she silent and icy.

Late in the afternoon the cloud banks to the eastward assumed alarming proportions. They brought with them an early nightfall, and when they broke let forth a tempest which rivaled that of the previous night. During the first of it armed men came sifting into McNamara's office from the rear and were hidden throughout the building. Whenever he described a peculiarly desperate ruffian the boss called him aside for private instruction and gave minute description of a wide shouldered, erect youth in white hat and half boots. Gradually he set his trap with the men Voorhees had raked from the slums, and when it was done smiled to himself. As he thought it over he ceased to regret the miscarriage of last night's plan, for it had served to goad his enemies to the point he desired, to the point where they would rush to their own undoing. He thought with satisfaction of the role he would play in the United States press when the sensational news of this night's adventure came out. A court official who dared to do his duty despite a lawless mob. A receiver who turned a midnight attack into a rout and shambles. That is what they would say. What if he did exceed his authority thereafter? What if there were a scandal? Who would question? As to soldiers—no, decidedly no. He wished no help of soldiers at this time.

The sight of a ship in the offing toward dark caused him some uneasiness, for, notwithstanding the assurance that the course of justice in the San Francisco courts had been clogged, he knew Bill Wheaton to be a resourceful lawyer and a determined man. Therefore it relieved him to note the rising gale, which precluded the possibility of interference from that source. Let them come tomorrow if they would. By that time some of the mines would be ownerless and his position strengthened a hundredfold.

He telephoned the mines to throw out guards, although he reasoned that none but madmen would think of striking there in the face of the warning which he knew must have been transmitted through Helen. Putting on his raincoat he sought Stillman.

"Bring your niece over to my place tonight. There's trouble in the air and I'm prepared for it."

"She hasn't returned from her ride yet. I'm afraid she's caught in the storm." The judge gazed anxiously into the darkness.

During all the long day the vigilantes lay in hiding, impatient at their idleness and wondering at the lack of effort made toward their discovery, not dreaming that McNamara had more cleverly hidden plans behind. When Cherry's note of warning came they gathered in the back room and gave voice to their opinions.

"There's only one way to clear the atmosphere," said the chairman.

"You bet," chorused the others. "They've garrisoned the mines, so let's go through the town and make a clean job of it. Let's hang the whole outfit to one post."

This met with general approval, Glenister alone demurring. Said he: "I have reasoned it out differently, and I want you to hear me through before deciding. Last night I got word from Wheaton that the California courts are against us. He attributes it to influence, but whatever the reason, we are cut off from all legal help either in this court or on appeal. Now, suppose we lynch these officials tonight, what do we gain? Martial law in two hours, our mines tied up for another year, and who knows what else? Maybe a corrupter court next season. Suppose, on the other hand, we fail, and somehow I feel that we will, for that boss is no fool. What then? Those of us who don't find the morgue will end in jail. You say we can't meet the soldiers. I say we can and must. We must carry this row to them. We must jump it past the courts of Alaska, past the courts of California, and up to the White House, where there's one honest man, at least. We must do something to wake up the men in Washington. We must get out of politics, for McNamara can beat us there. Although he's a strong man he can't corrupt the president. We have one shot left, and it must reach the Potosi. When Uncle Sam takes a hand we'll get a square deal, so I say let us strike at the Midas tonight and take her if we can. Some of us will go down, but what of it?"

Following this harangue, he outlined a plan which in its unique daring took away their breaths, and as he filled in detail after detail they brightened with excitement and that love of the long chance which makes gamblers of those who thread the silent valleys or tread the edge of things. His boldness stirred them and enthusiasm did the rest.

"All I want for myself," he said, "is the chance to run the big risk. It's mine by right."

Dexty spoke breathlessly to Slapjack in the pause which ensued:

"Ain't he a heller?"

"We'll go you," the miners chimed.

To a man. And the chairman added: "Let's have Glenister lead this forlorn hope. I am willing to stand or fall on his judgment." They acquiesced without a dissenting voice, and with the firm hands of a natural leader the young man took control.

"Let's hurry up," said one. "It's a long 'mush' and the mud is knee deep." "No walking for us," said Roy. "We'll go by train."

"By train? How can we get a train?"

"Steal it," he answered, at which Dexty grinned delightedly at his loose jointed companion, and Slapjack showed his toothless gums in answer, saying:

"He sure is."

A few more words and Glenister, accompanied by these two, slipped out into the whirling storm, and a half hour later the rest followed. One by one the vigilantes left, the blackness blotting them up an arm's length from the door, till at last the big, bleak warehouse echoed hollowly to the voice of the wind and water.

Over in the eastern end of the town, behind dark windows upon which the sheeted rain beat furiously, other armed men lay patiently waiting—waiting some word from the bulky shadow which stood with folded arms close against a square of gray, while over their heads a wretched old man paced back and forth, wringing his hands, pausing at every turn to peer out into the night and to mumble the name of his sister's child.

Amusements

This week bids fair to be an unusually pleasant one in a theatrical sense since it will bring before the theatre going public a new play, but which has in a very short time added materially to the fame of its distinguished author and producer, Mr. David Belasco. "Sweet Kitty Bellairs" is the play, and it comes to the Auditorium, Connersville, next Saturday evening. Mr. Belasco has written in "Sweet Kitty Bellairs," a very delightful play. Deep in his knowledge of human nature and the follies and strength of men, he deals principally with the actualities and pain in the defects as well as the perfections of the men of the romantic period with which the famous comedy deals. His hero is first a man and then a gentleman. His heroine is a creation of such compound traits of femininity as only Belasco can devise. His subsidiary characters are always sketched with pleasing accuracy and form a background of extraordinary importance. "Sweet Kitty Bellairs" is therefore a dramatic triumph of the first class and will attract a crowded house. Seats can be reserved with Frank Lyons at the I. & C.

The Grand theatre showed to large audiences last night one of the best programs of the season, which was greatly appreciated. Tonight there will be no moving pictures on account of Hi Henry's Minstrels, which shows this evening.

The Vaude had a good program last night which will be repeated tonight, "Modern Hercules at Work," "Ups and Downs of a Hat," and "His Unfaithful Wife," are the three subjects, which are all comic. The Vaude is showing a much better picture now, there being no flicker at all, and the size of the views on the canvas much larger and clearer.

An interesting mile skate race was pulled off at Kramer's skating rink Monday evening, in which Glen Moore won, making the mile in 3:10, with Bennie Sparks second. Stiffler and Jarvis were referees and Eddie Carter was time keeper. On Wednesday evening the winner, Glen Moore, and Eddie Carter will skate a mile race for a prize. This will be an interesting race as both are swift on the rollers. There will be matinee skating every afternoon this week at 2 o'clock.

NEW PRODUCTIONS.

Henrietta Crosman Appears In "The Christian Pilgrim."

NORRIS IN "TOM JONES."

The Inimitable Comedian Scores a Hit In a Pleasing New Comic Opera From England, Founded on Fielding's Story.

[From Our New York Dramatic Correspondent.]

Henrietta Crosman will probably not make a fortune in her dramatization of "Pilgrim's Progress," in which she is now appearing at the Liberty theater. "The Christian Pilgrim" is the play's title, arranged for the stage from John Bunyan's powerful book, by James MacArthur.

The vehicle is an imposing one, highly spectacular and one of undoubted interest when judged from certain viewpoints. But it is not of the fabric that successful plays are made of, that is certain.

The production is admirably staged. The story is well acted, Miss Crosman scoring decidedly. Whatever dramatic shortcomings there are are evidenced in the handling of the theme, not in the acting or the staging.

Miss Crosman herself was a very graceful and attractive Christian pilgrim, especially in the episodes where she was enabled to assume a heroic part, as in the combat with Apollyon in the valley of the shadow of death. This scene, by the way, with its weird spectral illusions and its realistic storm, was the most successful in the entire production. As the clouds lifted and the shadows passed away into daylight the audience warmly testified their approval of both acting and stage setting.

Tyrone Power, who acted many parts, including that of Apollyon in the valley, showed a good deal of vigor and versatility. The numerous minor characters did acceptably enough all that they were called upon to do.

The music, by William Furst, ranges from good to poor and for the most part preserves a mean of mediocrity between the two extremes.

At the Astor theater Henry W. Savage has produced "Tom Jones," a new comic opera. The music is by Edward German, the lyrics are by Charles H. Taylor, and the book is by Messrs. Robert Courtneidge and A. M. Thompson. It has been heard and seen in London for months, and now it has come to this city of noise to try its tuneful fortune.

"Tom Jones" is exceedingly pretty.

The music sparkles in its quaintness, and it rings true, for it is written by a musician. But despite its charm it is light and catchy enough to win popularity.

The book is founded on Henry Fielding's story, but the burrs of that late gentleman's language have been removed by a fine tooth comb with utmost care. Especially does this apply to the impetuous vocal explosions of one Squire Western.

It is hardly fair, however, to call "Tom Jones" a comic opera. It is really a romantic opera. It is true there is comedy in it, and good comedy, too, purveyed by the inimitable William Norris, he of the nervous wink and eloquent feet, who plays most admirably the role of a village barber. He loses a leech named Lizzie, and this loss wins for him the audience's sympathy and laughter. But he is legitimately funny in a hundred other ways, and he is allowed to prattle even in Latin, which is a defiance to a New York audience.

Miss Louise Gunning was admirable as Sophia. She acted the role well, and her singing was a surprise to the multitude. Her voice is pleasing of quality, and she sings with laudable respect for intonation. Her maid, Honour, was acted far better than it was sung by Miss Quinlan.

Mr. Wheeler, the Tom Jones, impersonated and sang his role excellently.

Cutler Seeking Fame.

Albert G. Cutler, champion shortstop billiardist of the world, is seeking for higher honors in the green cloth game. The young champion has already issued a challenge to play the winner of the 18.1 contest between Jacob Schaefer and George Sutton, which takes place in Chicago.

Ever since Cutler wrested the shortstop championship from Harry Cline he has been in active practice, ready to get a chance to play the experts in the class above him.

Cutler is in fine form and in a recent practice game with a prominent amateur in Boston compiled high runs of 137, 93 and 88 in 400, finishing the game with an average of more than 30.

PHYSICIANS CURE SKIN WITH SIM-PLE REMEDY

Noted Eczema Specialist Comments on a Proven Specific for Skin Diseases

Physicians everywhere continue their praise for ordinary oil of wintergreen in a wonderful specific for Eczema and other itching skin diseases. This liquid pure and clean as water, externally applied has instant effect. A few drops on the burning, itching sore causes instant relief, and a short continued use gives a complete cure.

Dr. C. B. Holmes of Silver City, Miss., is so enthusiastic about this remedy—D.
D. D. Prescription—that he declares in a letter to the D. D. D. Company of Chicago that this great remedy is as near a specific for Eczema as is guinine for malaria. "I have been using your D. D. D. for four years with gratifying results," writes Dr. Holmes.

There are thousands of other physicians who use D. D. D. Prescription the oil of wintergreen specific. D. D. D. cures and it is clean to use. If we did not know what D. D. D. will do we would not recommend it to our friends and patrons.

Try a WANT-AD for Results.

GET RICH QUICK.

Schemes of this class have again come to grief along with the gullible investors, causing serious loss to innocent business concerns, as is always the case of panics in Wall St.

While this last lesson is yet fresh in mind, it is an opportune moment to consider causes and means to avoid like trouble in the future.

Direct your attention to that greatest of all Newspapers the Cincinnati Enquirer. From its columns one can readily detect the trend of currency, its lodging places, by whom handled, uses made of it, and final results.

Again you read quotations of Bonds, Stocks, and Securities of every nature, fixing Status of all business from the retailer, to United States Government.

Also Current News, facts and reliable data covering the entire world; all sufficiently explicit to enable thinking people to avoid snags and follow the channel of success.

Its extra size and high price, is the secret of its ability to discover, obtain, print and serve its patrons with all the news, and cater to wants of people in every calling of life.

The Weekly Enquirer for the year 1908 has greatly increased its Clubbing offers which now include the most select and popular publications of the day at prices slightly over half the regular Subscription rates.

Do not overlook the fact that the year 1908 promises to excel in prosperity any of the past, and that the Enquirer printed at Cincinnati, Ohio, is one of the most reliable sources of information.

The Sixtieth Congress

PROBLEMS OF NOTE THAT WILL ENGAGE THE ATTENTION OF OUR STATESMEN.

Excellent Facilities Provided For National Legislators So That They May Work Harder and With More Ease—Fifty Per Cent Raise in Salaries—Luxurious Marble Palaces For Use of Congressmen and Senators—Striking Difference Between the New and the Old Washington.

By ROBERTUS LOVE.

It ought to be easy for the Sixtieth congress to work hard. In the first place, all members of this congress, both houses, get $7,500 a year, a raise of 50 per cent in salary.
That should help some toward a cheerful working spirit. In the next place, each member of the house of representatives, 391 in all, within a few weeks after the opening of the new congress will have at his disposal a private office in the magnificent new house annex which Uncle Sam has built for the use of the lawmakers.
By this time next year a correspondingly magnificent senate annex will be finished for the use of senators. If members of congress cannot work harder with more ease than heretofore in view of the luxuries with which the government is surrounding them, then their constituents should investigate.

In the new house annex there are 410 rooms. Each representative will have his own chamber, fitted with fine mahogany furniture. There will be a big, statesmanlike desk for Mr. Congressman, a commodious desk for the clerk supplied and salaried by the government to each member, a center table for copies of the home paper, the Congressional Record and other choice literature and a typewriter desk. The congressional shoe leather will tread tached to his suit of rooms. Each senator will have a room and his secretary another.

Veteran members of congress, like Senator Allison of Iowa, who has worn the toga for nearly thirty-five years and was a member of the lower house for eight years before he became a senator, find the Washington of today vastly different from that of thirty to forty years ago. In fact, it is practically a new Washington. Up to civil war time and for a few years beyond Washington was not a pretty place. It was muddy, miasmatic, malarious and many other unpleasant things. The venerable father of President Millard Fillmore visited his son in the early fifties when Millard lived in the White House. The old man stayed around there only a few days. When he announced his intention to return to his home in Buffalo somebody remarked that he should stay longer.

"No, sir," said the president's father,
"I'm going home. I don't like it here.
It isn't a good place to live. It isn't a good place for Millard. I wish he was at home in Buffalo."

World's Most Beautiful City.

Many of the streets of the Capital City were much below grade in those days. When it rained they became mudholes. The town looked quite too these problems, which has grown up altogether since the war between the states. Following the peace of Appomattox began what may be termed the corporate era in American history, the upbuilding of great enterprises and the gradual concentration of industrial exploitation by consolidating these great businesses into Goliaths which have come to be called "trusts." Many political Davids now seek to slay these giants or force them to be good. President Roosevelt having made the regulation of corporate activities one of the chief affairs of his administration, with persons of all political beliefs in his following, it is not to be doubted that the Sixtieth congress will give considerable attention to the trusts.

Senator McCumber of North Dakota prepared several weeks ago a bill which proposes to require a federal license for corporations engaged in interstate business.

Senator Beveridge of Indiana also prepared in advance of the opening of congress a bill to provide an inheritance tax. These two measures, it will be remembered, have been advocated by President Roosevelt. It is safe to predict that they will be among the most important matters of discussion in the new congress.

An American Problem.

Vast private fortunes in America have grown up since the civil war.
There were no enormously wealthy men prior to that struggle. Old Commodore Vanderbilt's $10,000,000 was the largest private fortune in the United States sixty years ago. Now a multillionaire is such an ordinary sight on the streets of many American cities that he attracts little more attention than the average citizen, while several men hold possessions exceeding $100,000,000 each. Thus the inheritance tax, which in some European countries has been required by law for many years, has become an American problem.

When Charles Sumner, a young man of forty, entered the United States senate, in 1851, the veteran Thomas H.
Benton of Missouri in his pompous manner greeted the new senator with the remark that he had come to the senate too late, that all the great men were dead and all the great questions were settled. Yet Mr. Sumner and his colleagues found great questions to settle, so great that they had to be submitted to the arbitrament of the sword. Now, nearly half a century after the decision was reached that these states form one great and powerful nation, new problems for statesmanship to solve have arisen, apparently of importance not less than were those of the time of Benton and that of Sumner immediately following.
Several of these problems will engage the attention of the Sixtieth congress.

John G. Whittier thought James G.
Blaine a greater man than Henry Clay.
It is quite probable that there are in congress now men as great in mental caliber, in eloquence and in patriotism as were the Websters, the Clays, the Calhouns, the Bentons, the Sumners, the Blaines of other days, but there is an excellent reason why these men do not stand forth like brilliant beacon lights as did the half dozen statesmen mentioned. The general standard of ability and learning has been raised since the Bentonian days, so that the few leaders are not so conspicuous.

Nearly Everything Changed.

The development of the city of Washington is typical of the growth of the nation. In the past half century the United States has changed so vastly that Daniel Webster, who declared that all the country west of the Rockies was and must forever remain a worthless wilderness, would not recognize this as his native land should he be permitted to return and take a transcontinental trip. About the only thing in Washington which Webster would recognize is the portico of the White House. Nearly everything else has changed.

These changes and developments have brought about the great new problems which this congress will discuss. One of the highly important new propositions is that of the restoration and improvement of inland waterways.
President Roosevelt has promised to advocate the creation of a deep waterway from the great lakes to the gulf, and it is probable that this matter will receive attention from the incoming congress. It has a bearing upon the railroad rate problem, by the way.
Congress, it is held by some, has a chance to kill two big birds with one stone by putting the rivers in competition with the railroads in the carrying of freight. The rates, it is believed, will be reduced, and the surplus products of many states now suffering for lack of transportation facilities will be moved promptly.

Another little matter which would make the shade of any statesman prior to 1860 corrugate with amazement is to be handled by this congress. An appropriation will be requested for a war balloon or airship fleet.

Truly the world moves, particularly the part of the world that surrounds
Washington, and we cannot censure
Uncle Sam for giving his legislators better facilities for doing their work.

Christmas Rites.
For our Christmas rites
Bring the great oak bole
That shall fling bright angle lights
From its ruddy soul!
And the holly twine
With the ivy vine.
Say a prayer for love
Ere the feasters sit!
(With the mistletoe above
This were surely fit)
Nor forget to be Samite charity!
Let peace o'er us brood,
And mirth round us rule!
May these lend beatitude
To the hours of Yule
Throughout all the girth
Of God's spacious earth!

FOR THE PINE WOODS

Hyomei's Aromatic Air is Guaranteed to Cure Catarrh or Cost Nothing

When using the Hyomei treatment, the air you breathe is like that on the mountains high above sea level where the pine woods fill the air with aromatic healing that gives health and strength to those suffering from diseases of the respiratory organs. Breathed through the neat pocket inhaler that comes with every outfit, the healing balsams of Hyomei reach the most remote air cells of the throat, nose and lungs, destroying all catarrhal germs and giving quick relief and cure.

Hyomei has performed almost miraculous cures of catarrh, often restoring health in chronic cases that had given up all hope of recovery. Its best action is at the start of the disease, when the breath is becoming offensive and when discharges from the nose, droppings in the throat and frequent sneezing or spasmodic coughing begin to make life a burden. At the first symptom of catarrhal trouble, use Hyomei and see how quickly you get relief and cure.

The complete outfit costs but $1.00 and is sold by Johnson's drug store, under guarantee to refund the money if it does not give satisfaction.
